MEDICAL.

The Old Reliable Family Medicine!

Has been introduced and sold

FOR THIRTY-ONE YEARS!

FROM

1840. TO 1871.

Perry Davis' Pain Killer,

Has been tested in every variety of climate, and by almost every nation known to Americans. It is the almost constant companion and inestimable friend of the missionary and the traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our LAKES OR RIVERS WITHOUT IT.

☞ Pain Killer was the first, and is the only permanent pain reliever.

Since the PAIN KILLER was first introduced, and met with such unsurpassed sale, many LINIMENTS, RELIEFS, PANACEAS, and other REMEDIES have been offered to the public, but not one of them has ever attained the truly enviable standing of the Pain Killer.

☞ Why is this so? ☜

It is because Davis' PAIN KILLER is what it claims to be, a Reliever of Pain.

ITS MERITS ARE UNSURPASSED.

If you are suffering from Internal Pain, Twenty or Thirty drops in a little water will almost instantly cure you. There is nothing to equal it. In a few moments it cures Colic, Cramp, Spasms, Heart Burn, Diarrhea, Dysentery, Flux, Wind in the Bowels, Sour Stomach, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache.

In sections of country where Fever and Ague prevails, there is no remedy held in greater esteem. Persons traveling should keep it by them. A few drops, in water, will prevent sickness or bowel troubles from change of water. From foreign countries the call for PAIN KILLER is great. It is found to cure Cholera, when all other Remedies fail. When used externally, as a Liniment, nothing gives quicker ease in Burns, Cuts, Bruises, Sprains, Stings from Insects, and Scalds. It removes the fire and the wound heals like ordinary sores. Those suffering with Rheumatism, Gout, or Neuralgia, if not a positive cure, they find the Pain Killer gives them relief when no other remedy will. It gives instant relief from Aching Teeth. From 1840, to this day 1871 (Thirty one years), PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER has had no rival.

Every Housekeeper should keep it at hand, to apply it on the first attack of any pain. It will give satisfactory relief and save hours of suffering. Do not trifle with yourself by testing untried remedies. Be sure you call for, and get the genuine Pain Killer, as many worthless nostrums are attempted to be sold on the great reputation of this valuable medicine.

☞ Directions accompany each bottle.

Price 25cts. 50cts. and $1.00 per Bottle.

THE MAMMOTH CAVE.

BY GEO. D. PRENTICE.

All day, as day is reckoned on the earth,
I've wandered in these dim and awful aisles,
Shut from the blue and breezy dome of Heaven,
While thoughts, wild, drear, and shadowy, have swept
Across my awe-struck soul, like spectres o'er
The wizard's magic glass, or thunder-clouds
O'er the blue waters of the deep. And now
I'll sit me down upon yon broken rock
To muse upon the strange and solemn things
Of this mysterious realm.

All day my steps
Have been amid the beautiful, the wild,
The gloomy, the terrific. Chrystal founts
Almost invisible in their serene
And pure transparency—high pillar'd domes
With stars and flowers all fretted like the halls
Of Oriental monarchs—rivers dark
And drear and voiceless as Oblivion's stream
That flows through Death's dim vale of silence—gulfs
All fathomless, down which the loosened rock
Plunges until its far-off echoes come
Fainter and fainter like the dying roll
Of thunders in the distance—Stygian pools
Whose agitated waves give back a sound
Hollow and dismal, like the sullen roar
In the volcano's depths—these, these have left
Their spell upon me, and their memories
Have passed into my spirit, and are now
Blent with my being till they seem a part
Of my own immortality.

God's hand
At creation hollowed out this vast
Domain of darkness, where nor herb nor flower
E'er sprang amid the sands, nor dews nor rains
Nor blessed sunbeams fell with freshening power,
Nor gentle breeze its Eden-message told
Amid the dreadful gloom. Six thousand years
Swept o'er the earth ere human foot-prints marked
This subterranean desert. Centuries
Like shadows came and passed, and not a sound
Was in this realm, save when at intervals,
In the long lapse of ages, some huge mass
Of overhanging rock fell thundering down,
Its echoes sounding through these corridors
A moment, and then dying in a hush
Of silence such as brooded o'er the earth
When earth was chaos. The great Mastodon,
The dreaded monster of the elder world,
Passed o'er this mighty cavern, and his tread
Bent the old forest oaks like fragile reeds
And made earth tremble—armies in their pride
Perchance have met above it in the shock
Of war, with shout and groan and clarion-blast
And the hoarse echoes of the thunder gun—
The storm, the whirlwind, and the hurricane
Have roared above it, and the bursting cloud
Sent down its red and crashing thunderbolt—
Earthquakes have trampled o'er it in their wrath
Rocking earth's surface as the storm-wind rocks
The old Atlantic—yet no sound of these
E'er came down to the everlasting depths
Of these dark solitudes.

How oft we gaze
With awe or admiration on the new
And unfamiliar, but pass coldly by
The lovelier and the mightier! Wonderful
Is this lone world of darkness and of gloom,
But far more wonderful yon outer world
Lit by the glorious sun. These arches swell
Sublime in lone and dim magnificence;
But how sublimer God's blue canopy
Beleaguered with his burning cherubim
Keeping their watch eternal! Beautiful
Are all the thousand snow-white gems that lie
In these mysterious chambers gleeming out
Amid the melancholy gloom, and wild
These rocky hills and cliffs and gulfs; but far
More beautiful and wild the things that greet
The wanderer in our world of light—the stars
Floating on high like islands of the blest—
The autumn sunsets glowing like the gate
Of far-off Paradise—the gorgeous clouds
On which the glories of the earth and sky
Meet and commingle—earth's unnumbered flowers
All turning up their gentle eyes to heaven—
The birds with bright wings glancing in the sun
Filling the air with rainbow miniatures—
The green old forest surging in the gale—
The everlasting mountains on whose peaks
The setting sun burns like an altar-flame—
And ocean, like a pure heart rendering back
Heaven's perfect image, or in his wild wrath
Heaving and tossing like the stormy breast
Of a chained giant in his agony.

HEART-TRUE.

A CHARMING SKETCH.

"It is such a bother to be poor."

There had been a long interval of silence in Mrs. Jameson's sitting-room, when Gertie made this explanation.

"What is the new bother, Gertie?"

The pleased voice and tone of kindly inquiry made the young girl blush deeply, as she replied:

"O mamma, never mind; I was only thinking aloud."

"Thinking of what?"

"Of some velvet flowers I saw yesterday, which just matched this ribbon," and Gertie held up a bonnet she was trimming. "Velvet flowers are so lovely for a winter bonnet, and this bonnet needs something."

"I am sure it looks very nice, Gertie."

"Nice." said the girl, scornfully emphasizing the words; "yes it is very nice, and that turned silk is nice, and the short sack made out of your old coat is nice, and cleaned gloves are nice, and—"

"Why Gertie?" cried her mother in a voice of amazement.

"But there is nothing stylish or handsome in cleaned gloves, and retrimmed bonnets, and old cloaks turned into sacks, and so I say, poverty is a bother."

"Gertie, put away that bonnet, and come here. Now little daughter," said the widow, gently, "tell me the meaning of this sudden tirade against poverty, of the restless tossing I heard from your room last night; of the nervous unquiet of my contented little girl since yesterday?"

There was no reply.

"Gertie, what did Leon Payne say to you last evening?"

"He asked me to be his wife." The words were jerked out hastily.

"And you answered—"

"Jane came in to shut up the parlor, not knowing he was there, and she stayed; so he had no answer at all."

"But he must be answered, Gertie. He has spoken to me, and I told him it must rest with you!"

"Mamma!" this after a long deep silence.

"He is very rich. When he marries, his wife can have every luxury. I—if it is I, we can have you with us, and Jane need not teach in that horrid school any longer. We were on—— street the other day, and stopped to look in a jeweler's window, and he pointed out the kind of jewels he would wish his wife to wear. I need not wear old silks then, mamma!"

"Then you intend to accept his offer?"

"I don't know; you see there is Harry."

"But Harry cannot offer you jewels."

"No; poor Harry! If he had only three thousand dollars, Mr. Ingraham would take him into the firm. He told me all about it last week. But think how long it would take him to save three thousand dollars, and of course his wife must save, and pinch and economize, till he is able to spend more freely."

"Yes, dear, there would be no variations on the cloth and retrimmed bonnets; no velvet flowers, no jewels."

"But such a noble true heart; such tender love!"

"Leon Payne loves you."

"As much as he loves anything beyond his own pleasure and comfort. He is so thoroughly selfish, so hard, and thinks so much of himself. It is his wife that must be handsomely dressed, ride in her carriage, and reflect credit upon his choice. Mamma, he loves me because I am pretty and can sing well, and can manage his house nicely. Harry loves me because it is I."

There was a violent jerk at the door-bell at that instant that called Gertie to the door. She came back with flying feet.

"Two valentines, mamma! I had forgotten it was the fourteenth."

"Two?"

"Yes! O mamma, look!"

She had torn the cover from a dainty package in her hand, and opened a morocco case inside. Upon the black velvet lining lay a parure of glittering diamonds flashing up where a stray sunbeam fell upon them, into a glorious sea of color.

"Leon Payne!" cried Gertie. "Are they not exquisite?"

Mrs Jameson's lip quivered a little as she looked at her daughter's flushed face and bright eyes, and her heart sent up a silent prayer for the future, trembling before her eyes.

"Look at the other," she said quietly.

"Only a copy of verses," said Gertie. "Violet eyes, and all that sort of thing. But are not these diamonds magnificent? It is the very set I admired so much when we were out the other day."

"Gertie, it is eleven o'clock, and I must go to Mrs. Lewis. Little daughter, you may have callers while I am out." She drew her child into her arms, and looked with anxious love into her eyes.

"Gertie, my darling, be true to your own heart." And so she left her.

True to her own heart. Gertie Jameson sat down to ponder over these words. The diamonds flashed out their glorious waves of light before her eyes; the copy of verses lay open upon the little work-table, and Gertie sat musing. Pictures of the past came in succession into her memory.

It was ten years ago, but she could still remember the day since her father had been called to the shadow land. The luxurious country home where she and Jane her eldest sister, were born, was sold, and they had lived upon her earnings until Jane was old enough to take the French class in a large seminary, and Gertie to have singing schools at home; but even with these additions, their income was very limited. Close economy, self denial, humble fare, and quiet dress, Gertie could recall much more distinctly than the wealth her father had squandered.

Where did Harry Clarke come upon the scene? Gertie scarcely knew. He was a stepson of her mother's brother, and had come to the city to make his fortune. Far away in the central part of Pennsylvania nestled a small farm where Harry was born, where father and mother had died, and which was the boy's sole patrimony. The rent of this domain scarcely sufficed to clothe the young clerk, but he had been winning his way in the house of I. & Co., and now, if he could make three thousand dollars, might be a partner. The farm might bring part of that sum, but where was the rest to come from? queried Gertie. Yet over Harry's memory-picture, the little maiden lingered lovingly. There was no part of her life so pleasant to dwell upon as that where he figured. Long walks and talks, duets over the old piano, chats by moonlight, and firelight, and gas-light. He was so tender and loving, so honorable and true, so respectful to her mother, so tender to Jane, and so ready to advise or assist Jane's betrothed, a fellow-clerk, who was waiting the turn in fortune's wheel that would enable him to marry. Was not such love as he offered worthy of any sacrifice?

Leon Payne came on the scene only six months before this musing fit upon Gertie. She had met him at a party, and had bewitched him by her pretty, piquant beauty, her grace and voice; he had dazzled her by his handsome face—Harry was not handsome, poor fellow, Gertie sighed—and wealth. But the young girl knew; with a woman's intuition, that under the courtly manner, flattering attentions and devoted air, there was a hard selfish nature, a cruel jealousy and a suspicious, hot temper. Yet, he was so rich, and Gertie knew all the torture and misery of genteel poverty.

"Be true to my own heart!" she said aloud, as she arose and walked across the room. "Do I love Leon Payne? If he should lose his wealth, would I be a true and loving wife to him still? Could I wear old bonnets for his sake?"

She took up the diamonds and put them on while she spoke. They flashed brilliantly against the deep crimson of her neat dress, and heightened the effect of her young, fresh beauty.

"If he were poor and ill, could I work for him as—as I could for Harry?"

It burst from her lips in a sort of cry, and she tore off the jewels and replaced them on their velvet bed. "I could bear all this for Harry, but not for Leon Payne. I will be true to my own heart."

* * * * * *

The winter was gliding into spring when Mrs. Jameson sat in a luxurious house on——street, waiting the coming of two brides. The parlor in which she waited was richly furnished. Velvet carpets covered the floors, velvet curtains draped the windows, long mirrors threw back the light of large chandeliers, costly pictures in heavy gilt frames hung upon the walls. Above large bed-rooms were filled with handsomely appointed furniture. In one room, laces, velvets, and flowers, and silks fit for a royal trousseau filled drawers and wardrobe. The dining-room was spread for a rich and varied repast, and the widow's own dress, though only black silk, was rich and handsomely made.

"My little Gertie," said Mrs. Jameson softly, "how will she reign over this palace?"

A quiter home, but pleasant, too, was waiting for Ja enabled him to accept a business opening, long looked upon as an unattainable felicity. But Jane was to spend a few days with Gertie before going to her own home, and the mother looked for two brides, as I said before.

It was nearly midnight when the carriage drove up. Gertee was first in her mother's arms, and then, as Jane took her place, the little bride stood in the center of the long parlors, pale with astonishment. She had tossed off her bonnet, and the straw lay upon the velvet carpet, while the soft, gray traveling dress of the mistress of the house seemed oddly out of place.

"Where am I?" she gasped at last.

"At home, darling," and her husband passed his arm around her waist.

"Home?"

"It is not such a very long story," he said looking down into her wondrous eyes, "but I did not tell you before, because I wanted to see if you loved me."

She nestled close to him, letting her head fall upon his bosom.

"The farm, Gertie," he said softly, "was full of oil."

"Oil?"

"I sold it for more money than Leon Payne ever possessed. Now, pet, run up stairs. Mother will show you the rooms, and let me see how some of the finery there suits you."

"Buts it's nearly midnight."

"Never mind. We want a queen to preside over the supper."

Mrs. Jameson led her away, while Jane and her husband stood as bewildered as Gertie had been. Suddenly the bride groom started forward to grasp Harry's hand.

"Then it was you," he said, "who sent me the bundle of greenbacks?"

"Are we not brothers?" asked Harry quietly.

There was a little talk then, with husky voices and moist eyes, and Jane was still looking gratefully into Harry's face, when the door opened and Gertie flashed in. All the light had come back to her eyes, the rich color to her cheeks, and the shining silk revealed snowy arms and shoulders, while rich lace fell in folds around the sweeping skirts. Upon her clustering curls rested a wreath of white flowers, and rare bracelets clasped her wrists. She made a low reverence to her husband.

"Lovely!" he cried. "But, pet, wear the diamonds to-night."

"What diamonds?"

"The ones I sent you for a valentine."

"You sent me Harry! I sent them back to Leon Payne"

It was certainly ten years later, when, one evening, at one of Mrs. Clarke's receptions, Mrs. Leon Payne said to her, pointing to her jewels:

"It was the oddest thing about these diamonds. Somebody sent them to Leon for a valentine years ago. He could never guess where they came from, for, of course the lady must have been wealthy, though why she sent a lady's parure to a gentleman is a mystery. Are they not lovely, Mrs. Clarke?"

"Very lovely," said Gertie, and smiled as she thought of the day, ten years ago, when she was true to her own heart.

☞The Statesman of Saturday has the following: Mr. Babcock, of New York, owner of the race horse Helmbold, challenges Mr. Harper to run that horse a four-mile race against Longfellow for "five or ten thousand dollars." Has Mr. B. seen the advertisement of Mr. Harper, offering a reward of five thousand dollars for the detection of the assassins by whom his brother and sister have been murdered? Hope not! Otherwise such a banter, at such a time, is in execrable taste.

☞The Madisonville Times of the 12th says: "On Friday evening last Deputy Sheriff James M. Castleberry arrested two white men named Wilson, and twenty-three negroes, in the southern portion of this county, charged with the shooting and killing of R. A. Smith, of the firm of Gilleland & Smith, in this county. A man by the name of Coyle is also implicated in the homicide, but made his escape, and is still at large. The two Wilsons gave bond, and were set at liberty. The twenty three negroes implicated, on failing to give bond, were placed in jail here to await trial."

INSPIRATION IN WATER.—The Good Templars, says the Observer and Reporter, have some remarkably good speakers. To say nothing of Messrs. Bain and Hickman—there are Mr. Powell, of Henderson, an incontestable chip of the old block; Mr. J. H Hopper, of Marion, who delivered the finished and impressive address on Wednesday evening; Col. George R. Gill, of Mason, a graceful and effective speaker; Dr Howard Henderson, of Fayette, whose efforts have the ring of the good old apostolic times; and Col. W. S. Rand, of Lewis, whose oratory fully redeems the promise of his youth. And all this inspiration is drawn from a liquid of unimpeachable purity.

☞The editor of the Paducah Kentuckian met Governor Charles Anderson at Eddyville, a few days since. He resides at that place, and his numerous friends throughout the country will be glad to know that he is in fine health. He is the owner of a large tract of land below Eddyville, which contains inexhaustible beds of the finest iron ore in the world, right through the center of which will run the Elizabethtown and Paducah Railroad.

The young man who is to marry Mlle. Nilsson is about as numerous as the body-servant of Andrew Jackson, and his location quite as various as any happy individual could wish.

In a late vacation letter Henry Ward Beecher enumerates as among the delights of summer rest the privilege of wearing old clothes. This is a privilege that a good many clergymen have the whole year round.

A Western paper grumbles because Horace Greeley took $200 from the farmers of Wabash for a lecture on silk-hearing sheep, short-horned potatoes and dapple gray clothes horses.

Mr. William Ink, of New Hampshire, is now 103 years old. If his parents had ever dreamed that he was going to be so hard to rub out they would have doubtless named him Indelible.

Mr. Crossman, of Huron county, Michigan, awoke one night from a great dream of peace to find a swarm of little busy bees in bed with him. They had taken possession of the sleeves and other dependencies of his shirt, and were making themselves sociable. He vacated that linen with alacrity.

The Rev. Charles Edward Cheney, of Chicago, who for some time has been conspicuous, especially in Episcopal circles, is not much over thirty-five years of age. He is of good height, solidly built, full-faced, with light mutton-chopped whiskers, sonorous voice, a pleasant face, and an energetic carriage. He is genial of approach, and popular in the family circle; a fluent and at times eloquent speaker, abounding in metaphors, especially those relating to the ocean and ships. He is positive in his convictions and bold to speak them, with possibly a desire for notoriety in taking new and advanced ground. His energy in the parish and ability in the pulpit have gathered in a few years a strong and united church in a comparatively remote part of the city.

The Gallows.

HARTFORD, CONN., Oct. 13.—David Kentby, Alias James Wilson, was hung at 1:30 P. M., to-day. He attempted suicide about three o'clock this morning by attempting to puncture his heart with a small wire, which he had secreted upon his person. In consequence of his weakness this morning, there was an effort to procure a stay of proceedings, but it failed. At the hour for his execution he walked firmly upon the scaffold, and made a short speech, in which he said that he had attempted to escape the ignominy of the scaffold. He justified his act in killing the Warden, and finally put the rope over his own neck, and met his fate without flinching.

HOW IS THIS?—The receipts from Internal Revenue for the year ending June 30th, 1870, were $160,000,000; for the year just closed they were $185,000,006, and yet we are told every day by Radical papers that the taxes have been and are being reduced.

Subscriptions for the relief of the Chicago sufferers have been opened in every prominent European city. "One touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

The Bangor (Maine) Democrat calls attention to the fact that the loss of property in Chicago is one-third more than the total valuation of the whole State of Maine.

Grant is out with his proclamation suspending habeas corpus in nine counties of South Carolina. The general impression is that Grant has done a very foolish thing.

The report of the hanging of Barney Aaron and Joe Butts to a lamp post in Chicago is confirmed by George W. Smith, now in this city, who acted as a special policeman in Chicago, and saw the operation performed at Clark and Randolph streets. Aaron and his companion were apprehended in the act of plundering the jewelry store of Miller & Co. at that point, when an enraged crowd of citizens seized them. Aaron is said to have died demanding a trial by jury and begging for his life, while his confederate breathed his last heaping curses upon his captors.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The gentlemen most noted for wealth in New York are becoming somewhat conspicuous for age. William B. Astor is seventy-eight; A. T. Stewart, seventy; Vanderbilt, seventy-eight; Daniel Drew, seventy-one; Peter Cooper, eighty-one; George Law, seventy-three; William Cullen Bryant, seventy-seven, and James Gordon Bennett, seventy-seven. All except the last are still actively toiling in business harness.

It is a good thing to be the son of a President. Mr. Grant's son Fred is drawing pay as a West Point cadet. He is also granted three months longer leave of absence than is granted to his fellow cadets, in order that he may serve a railroad company in the capacity of civil engineer. People who are not the sons of Presidents are supposed to owe their services to the United States so long as they are in its pay, and are not often allowed to serve two masters. But there are laws to which Kings' and Presidents' sons are answerable.

It appears from the report of the Secretary of the Treasury that since March 1st, 1866, the Republican Administration has received in the way of taxes nearly $5,000,000,000. With this immense sum it has paid only $66,000,000 of debt. This is at the rate of 13,000,000 a year. It therefore appears, and we state it as a gratifying fact that those of us who are alive one hundred and eighty-nine years from now will witness the entire extinction of the debt. What a hallelujah we will then have!

It is worthy of remark that Boss Tweed, of New York, amassed a very handsome competence in a very few years through politics. We wouldn't like to swear that when a man makes ten million dollars in politics in ten years that he does it honestly. We never lost any sleep troubling about Mr. Tweed, but we do know of a gentleman who went into politics about ten years ago a bankrupt who is now worth a million of dollars. One hundred thousand dollars a year, without the investment of any capital whatever is rather favorable. The name of this young man is Grant. His father resides in Covington. If any body is inclined to discredit what we say, they can ask the old gentleman.

By the exercise of some ingenuity and a good deal of presence of mind, the Professors and students of Villa Nova College, Pennsylvania, recently saved that institution from being destroyed by fire. The flames originated in the basement, and would have soon enveloped the entire building but for the use of wet mattresses and a liberal supply of mud. In this way the doors and windows were made airtight during four hours at the end of which time the fire died from lack of sustenance. There were no engines nearer than Philadelphia, and before one could be procured from that city the last vestige of smoke had disappeared for fully an hour and a half.

A cotemporary tells of an undertaker who in his enthusiasm for his business always identified himself with it. He is called in a hurry, and his coffin happens to be a little short. "We will settle," he cries, "during the night so as to fit the coffin; it is astonishing how we settle sometimes; we have been known to settle three inches in a single night!" The same man was given to dallying lovingly with his subjects, and was proud when they looked well. Once he said, "Don't we look natural? This neckcloth needs a little fixing, and we'll do." And another time, "Will our friends be kind enough to take a last look at us?" And on another occasion, "Here we are, eleven days from New Orleans, and sweet as a nut!"

Marie Leroy, the Handsome Mayoress of the Communist—Tried, and Found Guilty.

Galignani furnishes a report of the trial of Marie Leroy, widow, who was called "the handsome mayoress of the Communists." She was charged, first, with having, by cries and menaces, endeavored to excite an attempt to cause devastation and massacre in the city of Paris; second, of complicity in assisting Urbain in his violence and robbery of a person named Landau; third, of complicity in the abstraction of the funds destined for instruction in the Seventh arrondissement (St. Germain.) The prisoner, who is a good looking young woman, fair, with bright blue eyes, twenty-one years of age, was elegantly dressed. During the first siege of Paris she replaced the amusements of the theatres and balls, which had been clo by the excitement of politics. Sh tended the various clubs, a quently addressed the audier were fascinated by her beauty and her ready flow of language. At one of these, the Pre aux Clercs, Rue du Bac, she encountered Urbain, and speedily obtained an unbounded empire over him. Afterward, when the Commune was instituted and he was delegated to administer the Seventh arrondissment, she accompanied him to the Mairie, where they took up their abode, and she appears to have usurped an unlimited authority, and to have been the soul of the insurrection in that quarter, and to have been the instigator of numerous researches, in which she generally accompanied Urbain. In one of these expeditions, that mentioned in the indictment, she was accused of having carried off the jewelry of Mme. Landau, and witnesses were called to prove that they had seen her wearing rings belonging to that person. Although possessed of no means of her own, she made herself conspicuous by her purchases of expensive articles, and particularly as regards her dress. A number of witnesses were called to establish the foregoing facts, and after an eloquent address from M. Andre Rousselle in defense of the accused, the latter, on being asked if she had anything to and, protested her innocence, and declared that she would rather lose her hea convicted of theft. The court, an hour's deliberation, found guilty on the first and second counts, with extenuating circumstances, acquitted her on the third and sentenced her to simple transportation.

Near the little town of Wromin, in Lithuania, there used to be a lake eight versts long by five wide. It was famous for its fish, and was worth from this source fifteen hundred roubles a year. Four or five weeks ago, during a perfect atmospheric calm the waters of the lake became violently perturbed. Waves rose high in air and dashed furiously to and fro, while a poignant odor of sulphur pervaded the whole neighborhood. For three days this went on, and by that time the surface of the lake was covered with fish, who had been killed by the sulphur. Fearing a pestilence from the great numbers of dead fish, the inhabitants of the neighboring villages began to collect and cover them with lime. Meanwhile, the lake began to sink, the sulphurous smell increasing daily, and at latest accounts the bed of the lake was almost quite dry. The theory is, that the lime-stone and chalk bottom of the lake has given way, and that the waters have made their path into subterranean canals. Doubtless by this time they are serving as a cascade in the gas-lit regions inhabited by the "Coming Race."

The Atlanta (Ga.) Plantation says the following recipe for big head in horses is from a thoroughly sensible and practical farmer and stock-raiser, and is reliable: "If the horse is in good condition as to flesh, bleed copiously, and repeat every other day for two or three times. At the same time the diet should be limited, excluding grain entirely. In the winter feed on fodder or shucks; in the summer use a woods pasture. After the preliminary treatment of bleeding grease around the affected part with firm lard so as to prevent the spread of the vitriol, and apply oil of vitriol over the space inclosed by the lard. One application of the vitriol is sufficient. The flesh will slough off in about fourteen days. The above system of dieting should be kept up for four months at least. After using this recipe for years I regard it as infallible. I have never known an instance of the return of the disease.

Stopping A Newspaper.

One of our exchanges has the following allegory, which we commend to the careful consideration of those gentlemen, who, the moment they see anything which displeases them in the local columns of their local journals, rush into the printing office and cry out, "stop my newspaper." UNFAIR AND UNTRUE.

The Frankfort Commonwealth is ertainly ambitious to win the distinction of being the champion false-witness. No charge is too improbable, too preposterous, against Democrats and the Democratic party, for it to coin and publish. For instance, accounting for the tide of immigration flowing out of this State towards the West, the Commonwealth asserts that the causes are: 1. Lawlessness. 2. Demoralization of labor. Making these unfounded statements its text, the Commonwealth charges that Democrats roam the State in bands, shooting, whipping and hanging negroes, and burning their houses, and Democratic officials refuse to punish them for these acts of lawless violence. Such a charge bears its refutation on its face. It is the spawn of maliciousness the offspring of intense and un-[illegible]ng partisan malignity.

The causes that start immigration from the Eastern and Northern States start it from Kentucky. The West affords facilities for men of moderate means acquiring competence that do not exist in older States, especially Kentucky. Here it requires a fortune to purchase and stock a moderate-sized farm. There lands are cheap and abundant. Here society is settled in fixed grooves, and the ambitious poor man finds it the labor of a lifetime to climb the rounds to independence. There the field is open to all who will venture; society is in its cradle; vast empires are still girt with swaddling clothes; and the poor, ambitious young man, growing up with the society and the State, has facilities for acquiring wealth and achieving social and political distinction that are impossible in older settled communities. These, coupled with the natural and universal desire to better one's condition, are the impelling causes of the immigration ascribed by the Commonwealth to Democratic lawlessness.

☞The Administration apparent- [illegible]templates the advisability of [illegible]ving the nation in a war with the Chinese. At least such is the inference to be drawn from Admiral Porter's letter calling for vessels adapted to the exigencies of river warfare in that country. Ever since the gallant attack of our sailors upon the Corean forts, and the retirement of the ships after a fruitless victory, it has been evident that unless the fight was to go on the Coreans would believe that they had driven away the fleet. Such a belief will probably be the source of new outrages on the part of the Coreans, calling for fresh attacks by the American fleet. The Chinese naturally sympathize with the Coreans, who are politically a part of the Celestial Empire and can easily be drawn into the contest. The administration will then have secured a foreign war to divert attention from its failure at home. There was never any very strong necessity for attacking the Coreans, and that attack will more than ever be regretted if it leads us into an unnecessary war with China.

☞Horace Greeley in the Tribune of the 9th inst., says: "Nearly every rotten rascal of our party is seeking a legislative nomination, in the evident belief that our municipal thieves will badly need a dozen Republican votes next winter, and will be constrained to pay fancy prices for them." This shows there is but little hope of an improvement in public morals in the city of New York, when leading and representative men of the Radical party, offer themselves for sale to the municipal thieves and expect fancy prices.

THE RAILROAD---THE WORK TO COMMENCE IMMEDIATELY.

The following paragraph from the Lexington Press of Monday, is confirmative of information of which we have been in possession for a week past:

> The fact has become publicly known that the contract for building this road [E. L. & B. S.] to the mouth of the Big Sandy has been let out, as also the sub-contracts for the distance from here to Mount Sterling. It may therefore be confidently expected that work on the road will begin within a week or at most ten days. Our citizens may rest easy about the building of this road; the hearty advocates of it may rejoice, and the croakers be silent.

Louisville has commenced a little game, with two objects in view—the defeat of the Cincinnati road, and the killing off of the Big Sandy. Her hostility to the former work arises from jealousy of a rival whose energy and enterprise she is too indolent and timid to emulate; and the completion of the Big Sandy, from the point of connection with the Ohio and Chesapeake to Elizabethtown, there joining the Paducah road, which is the extension eastward from St. Louis, thus bridging the only gap in a grand trunk railway from the South Atlantic seaboard to the Pacific, leaves Louisville to hug its selfishness far to the north of the great thoroughfare. This, to her, would be almost commercial ruin.— By pretending to interest herself in an imaginary road from Frankfort via Georgetown and Paris, through this county or Bath and the country to be traversed by the Big Sandy, she hopes to alienate our people from the Cincinnati and the Big Sandy enterprises, only to laugh at us when she has accomplished a triumph over her great rival. Already we have seen the effect of her machinations in the result of the railroad elections in Boyd and Carter. Franklin, Scott and Bourbon are now being manipulated. But however others may falter, Fayette, Clark Montgomery and Bath will stand by the Big Sandy and the Southern roads. Louisville, by her selfish greed, is fast alienating Central and Eastern Kentucky from her. We know that she will never give a dollar towards building a road in this direction, and therefore we caution our people not to lend their ears to her false promises—promises that will be forgotten so soon as the Cincinnati road is chartered or the Legislature adjourns.

☞A meeting of the members of the bar in attendance at the Breckinridge court was held Oct. 13th 1871, at which the following among other resolutions was passed.

> Resolved, That we reccommend to the members of the bar and bench throughout the State, that they meet in convention in the city of Louisville on the 15th day of December, 1871, and that among the matters that will probably claim the attention of said convention, are 1st: The propriety of branching the Appellate court of this State, so that its sessions shall be held in each of the appellate districts. 2d. The organization of an intermediate Appellate court, so as to diminish the number of records to be passed upon by the present court. 3d. The recommendation of a system of equity practise, which will give more promptitude and efficiency to the administration of justice in our courts of equity. 4th. The recommendation of a thorough revision of our laws of evidence. 6th. The recommendation to his Excellency the Governor of Kentucky, of suitable persons to revise the statutes. 6th. Such other matters as may come before said convention in furtherance of a sound and uniform administration of law.

This is a move in the right direction. If ever there was a batch of laws, and constitution, too, that needed overhauling, we think Kentucky has them; the laws in relation to vagrancy and petit larceny are not only dead letters, but the manner in which they are administered make a heavy expense to the State. There are many others equally as defective. By all means let us have them overhauled.

SCHURZ AND THE DEMOCRACY.

The Courier-Journal, of Friday, closes an article reviewing the attitude of the distinguished Missouri Senator, Carl Schruz, and contrasting it with the good old "Democratic wagon," in the following ringing paragraphs:

We do not mean to be understood as discrediting the practical abilities of Carl Schurz. We know him to be a strong and clear-headed man. He is doing what needs must be done in the inception of every movement. But, at present, he is playing the part of Dante the poet, not the part of Dante the statesman and warrior. His own great countryman was by no means incapacitated from the most realistic affairs by his achievements in belleslettres, and made perhaps a better prime minister on account of the powers which brought forth a Fust and a Wilhelm Meister, a Mephistopheles and a Mignon. Nor must it be understood that we are setting ourselves upon a critical jack-stool to deliver oracles of worldly wisdom at the expense of a public man so eminent and so successful as the Missouri Senator. That is not it. We do not mean to dismiss him with the ready and cheap civilties of the drawing-room as a brilliant literary enthusiast, who is in nobody's way, to be tolerated and even petted because he amuses us. We merely say that his prospectus is yet a piece of political literature—brilliant though it be—and that it remains for the future to decide how far it is going to fasten itself to the necessities and circumstances of our time.

If we are asked what we think of it we have to answer we think very well of it indeed. If we are asked what we shall do for it, we have to answer that we shall treat it kindly and give it a fair show. But this is all. We are not the maker or unmaker of parties. We are not the creator or the discoverrr of party leaders. Parties and party leaders must spring of themselves, as it were, from the bosoms of the people.

To simplify the thing by a common illustration, let us say that we are now riding in the old fashioned Democratic carry-all. We paid our fare and took a through ticket a good while ago. Well, it has jolted us right smartly. It has hauled us over some pretty rough places. At times it looked as if it were going to upset. We know well enough that it is getting mighty rusty to look at, and likewise rickety. The fact is, the wheels have not been greased for some time, and now and then they do creak like the mischief. But, for all its age and battered condition, the old Democratic carry-all is yet a vehicle. It ain't much for show. It ain't a fine and stylish vehicle. It ain't a gilt-edged chariot. But it'll go. It has wheels and a tongue; and, if we could get a couple of good wheel-horses, and stop the mouth of that infernal old baby down there in Georgia, we think there is some safe traveling in it even as it is. At all events, we see no other vehicle in sight except our little friend Grant's new-fangled coach and six, with the bob-tail ponies, and that doesn't suit us. Therefore we don't mean to get out of our carry-all and take it afoot over an unknown country. Nor can we stop and help Carl Schurz make a new vehicle. We do not pretend to say he will fail. We do not premise that his vehicle will not be stout and safe. We don't even know but that we shall be glad enough to be taken into it in case our old carry-all breaks down. But, for the present, it seems to us best to stick to the cussed old critter, and to try and make it do. We'll take our chance at a run-and-jump if Carl Schurz's new drag catches up and is likely to get too far ahead of us. That old Georgia baby is a mighty nuisance, and we have two or three big brats here in Kentucky that keep up more noise than there's any use for. But when we get the horses hitched and started, and the old carry-all begins to rattle along as if the wildcats were after it, they'll shut up, like little men.

So, here's luck to Schurz—for we wish him well—and here's confusion to the coach-and-six with the bobtailed ponies—and here's cur best endeavors for the old carry-all, till it breaks down or goes to smash!

"A-shoutin' the happy land of Canaan."

A Radical U. S. Senator on Trial.

[From the St. Louis Republican.

The United States Circuit Court of Arkansas met at Little Rock on Monday last, and the case of United States vs. Senator Clayton, for the violation of the Congressional enforcement act, was called. Clayton's counsel demurred to the indictment on the ground: first, that the ninteenth, twentieth and twenty-first sections of the act are unconstitutional; second, that the United States court has no jurisdiction over the Governor of the State; third, that the Governor is not an election officer within the meaning of the act.

It will be noted that Clayton does not boldly plead not guilty of the frauds charged on him, and demand proof; he clutches at technicalities, and endeavors to get rid of the case before it reaches a trial of the facts. This is a rather pitiable spectacle for a Senator of the United States and a trusted member of the administration party to be in. He does not deny that he committed the election frauds charged against him, and by means of which he is believed to have reached the Senate; but he denies the constitutionality of the law which his own party passed; and he seeks shelter behind the dogma of state rights by pleading that the Govenor of a State is not amenable to a law of Congress. The public will watch the progress of this case with some interest. Twent[illegible] frauds, a[illegible] friends, a[illegible]

THE PLACE TO MAKE A HOME.

We cordially approbate the efforts of the South newspaper to attract attention to the natural advantages of the Southern States. There precious minerals abound and inexhaustible lumber forests flourish. There every vegetable production necessary to the welfare and happiness of man grows generously and luxuriantly. Even the rare and delicate fruits of the tropics may and do find a home within the warm embrace of the gulf coast. From the green pastures of Maryland, Kentucky and Missouri, with their prolific lands; across the fertile fields of Virginia, Tennessee and the Carolinas, with their picturesque mountain scenery; to the rich and inexhaustible savannas of the gulf States, and the trans-Mississippi territory of Arkansas, upper Louisiana and Texas, will be found every variety of soil required for any desired kind of agriculture.—Cotton, tobacco, the sugar-cane and rice are at home from one end of this broad domain to the other, each having its particular habitat where it reaches the highest perfection. Indian corn, wheat, rye, oats, barley, grow well everywhere. Clover, lucerne and the grasses flourish in nearly all localities. Potatoes, peas, garden vegetables, are produced in the greatest abundance. Fruits of all kinds, from the luscious peach to the delicious strawberry, load the trees and vines with their rich burdens, while the most charmingly beautiful and exquisitely fragrant flowers beautify the earth, adorn the homes, and gladden the sight everywhere in the Southland. Nature has lavished her gifts with a prodigal hand upon this favored region, and fitted it to become, as it one day will, the richest, most beautiful and most prosperous portion of the globe. If one wants to raise stock he will everywhere find soil and climate favorable. Texas will feed this continent with her beef and mutton. Kentucky now furnishes the best and most highly esteemed blooded stock in this country. If one wishes to plant cotton, the canebrake of Alabama or the Mississippi bottom furnishes a soil absolutely inexhaustible, richer and deeper than the famed delta of the Nile. If one desires a home among more romantic surroundings the scenery of Western North Carolina and East Tennessee can only be compared to that of Switzerland. Every taste can be suited, every requisite met, every desire gratified, and, above all, these homes can now be had cheaply and peacefully, among people ready to welcome the industrious settler, and to afford him all the facilities and information necessary to make him satisfied and contented.

Says the Richmond Register: Curtis' Hambletonian, one of the most valuable horses in Kentucky, was found dead in his stable on Tuesday morning. He had been standing during the past season at the farm of W. J. Walker, Esq., half a mile from Richmond, at $100 the season, and had served eighty odd mares. On Monday afternoon he was, apparently, in most excellent health. A post mortem examination, in the presence of several gentlemen, indicated that his lungs, heart, liver, &c., were in a perfectly healthy condition. From the manner in which the grass in front of his stable had been rolled, it was thought that he might have died of colic, but as he had for weeks past been fed upon nothing except sheaf oats it is strange how he could have contracted the disease. Hambletonian was half-brother to Dexter, Winfield, Geo. Wilkes, Bruno, Alexander's Abdallah, Startle, Socrates, Harvest Queen, and a number of others—the best in America.—He was by Rysdyk's Hambletonian, out of Miss Miller's dam, by Defiance, son of Membrino Paymaster, sire of Membrino Chief; grandam by Membrino, son of imported Messenger.—M. ☞The following was the address on a letter recently forwarded by a guest of the Kentucky Hotel to his better-half:

Post Clerk, when you see this letter,
Break it not, there' nothing in 't,
Nought that would your fortune better,
Note from bank nor coin from mint.

There is nothing but affection,
And perhaps a little news.
When you've read this, on reflection,
Take or leave it, as you choose.

If you leave it—ROSE E. ROBBINS,
Of the town of—CAMBRIDGEBORO,
In the bounds of—CRAWFORD COUNTY,
Wants to get it in a hurry.
To the State founded by—PENN.,
Start it along right quickly, then.

From the writer of the above address we learn the following interesting particulars of his family history:

Mr. Robbins and wife are exactly the same age, to an hour; they are exactly the same height; they were born and reared five hundred miles apart, never heard of each other until after their twentieth year, and were married on their twenty-first birthday.

☞The Carlisle Mercury people have taken to prophesying. This is their prediction in relation to our railroad: "We will venture the assertion that the Kentucky and Great Eastern Railroad will be built long before the Big Sandy is, even if the latter is ever built." That's the way a taste of railroad always sets some editors' tongues to wagging. When the K. and G. E. road is finished we shall have laid the third set of rails on our road—having worn out the two first. Mark that, ye Mercurial prophets.

☞In "making up" our local page last week, we unintentionally overlooked and "left out" a paragraph referring to a visit from our young friends, Quisenberry and Garner, of the Winchester Democrat. Both the young gentlemen looked as hearty as bucks, and as though the newspaper harness sat lightly upon them. They publish a spicy, interesting sheet, and deserve well of the reading public of old Clark.

☞Last Friday night some malicious wretch threw a stone through a window on Maysville street, striking a poor old inoffensive colored woman on the head, inflicting a severe, and it was for a time thought fatal, wound. This sort of thing, flinging stones after night, is becoming too frequent for comfort. It is high time for somebody to empty about twenty-five buckshot into the breast or stomach of one or two of our night-fliers. The world would lose nothing by the experiment and our town be decidedly the gainer.

☞It is said that if all that the dogs of the country eat was fed to the swine, it would make $50,000,000 worth of pork. Add to this the value of sheep they destroy, and something of an idea of the curse of dogs can be obtained.

☞We won't vouch for the truth of it, but this story is told of Craddock: He was "interviewing" a well-known literary lady of Lexington, and among other questions, asked, "Well, madam, what do you hold on this question of female suffrage?" To which she responded, "I hold my tongue, sir."

☞The Green River Pantagraph is the name of a new, large, and exceedingly interesting paper which reaches us from Bowling Green. Its editor and publisher, Mr. J. M. Hines, is a piquant and entertaining writer, who gained a deservedly high reputation in the newspaper world while conducting the Bowling Green Democrat. The Pantagraph, of course, is soundly Democratic. We wish it a long and prosperous career.

☞Gen. O'Neil, at the head of forty or fifty other ragamuffins, attempted another invasion of Canada, the other day, and landed in jail. An application of stout cord and strong limb is the only thing that will break that fellow of his buccaneering propensities.

☞According to a Scotch paper, Mr. Alexander, Lord of the Manor of Airdrie, being soon to marry Miss Fullerton, a member of an old landed family in Ohio, the influential residents of Airdrie and districts have resolved to celebrate the event by presenting the laird and lady with a congratulatory address and presentation. Mr. Alexander is better known to Americans as the stock-raiser of Kentucky, and one of the most prominent men of the West. Though a Scotchman, Mr. Alexander prefers to live in America. He has given up his Scotch title, but still retains his ancestral estate.

A TWIN FACTORY.

Story of a Remarkable Family in the Kentucky Mountains.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal.

About one mile from Jamestown, Russel county, there lives one of the most remarkable families in all the commonwealth, and, probably, in the United States. Mr. James Jeffries, who is now in this city serving upon the petit jury in the United States Court, tells his own story, and says that he was married before he was seventeen years old, his wife being only five days younger than himself. They lived together seven years without children, when his wife gave birth to twins, a boy and a girl. In the fifteen years that followed, nineteen children were born to the happy couple, each of the first three births being twins and each subsequent birth alternating between twins and single births until the fifteen years were accomplished and nineteen children composed the family circle, seven pair of twins being born during that time. Mr. Jeffries is only 45 years old and is still youthful in appearance and very stout. His wife never had better health in all her life than at present, though she will not weigh a hundred pounds. Her greatest weight at any time was 110 pounds. The boy of first twins now weighs 165 pounds; the girl 125 pounds. All the boys who are grown have made large men; the girls are of good size and all the children healthy. But five out of the nineteen have died. Mr. Jeffries has ten brothers, all of whom are large men, and within the families of these eleven brothers there are thirty-seven pairs of twins, making seventy-four twin children, to say nothing of the host of single births. Five of Mr. Jeffries' children are married, and, added to all these singular facts, notwithstanding the absence of silvery locks on his head, he is the grandfather of five children.

☞The Paris True Kentuckian says: There was a large attendance at the Good Templars' Lodge in this city on Friday night, many of the returned delegates being present. Speeches were delivered by Mr. Geo. R. Gill, a rising young lawyer of Maysville, and by Wallace Gruelle, the printer poet. Both of these gentlemen are zealous workers in the temperance cause, and much of the success attending the business of the Lexington Convention, was due to their unwearying labors during the deliberations of that body. Mr Gruelle's address was a brief, spirited, telling one, which had a happy effect on his auditors. We are glad his talents are enlisted in such a good cause.

The Paducah Kentuckian has seen a couple of curiosities, one in the shape of a large and well-developed ear of corn, which grew out of the upper end of the stalk where the tassel should have been. The other was some curious tobacco. Twenty-three plants entirely different from the balance of the tobacco crop on the same farm. The stem was about the usual length, but no leaf at all appeared on the stem within six or eight inches of the stalk. This left the leaf short, but it appeared to be as heavy as if the leaf had grown on all the stem. The Kentuckian thinks it had probably got mixed with the Brazil tobacco. Both of these curiosities were produced on the farm of Mr. John L Ragland, of Ballard county.

The case of John Donnellan, for the killing of Woolums, was called on Monday in the Circuit Court at Paris, and he was surrendered by his bondsmen into the custody of the Court. Robert Davis, Esq., refused to sit in the case and other lawyers who were applied to having also refused, he will have to remain in jail until the next term or until such time as he can get bail.—Lex. Gazette.

Nineteen prisoners are in the Bowling Green jail, three of whom are there on a charge of murder.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Trust what Time has Sanctioned.

The maxim that the voice of the people is the voice of divinity may in some cases be open to doubt, but the testimony of honest and enlightened witnesses extending through a series of years, and all to the same purport, is worthy of credence, admits of no question. Upon such testimony the reputation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as an antidote and cure for many ailments is based. During the twenty years that it has been before the world, innumerable preparations intended to compete with it have gone up like rockets, and come down extinguished sticks. Meanwhile the progress of that incomparable tonic has been swift and steady—always upward and onward, like the eagle's flight. Its introduction produced a revolution in therapeutics, and it proved to be one of those salutary revolutions that cannot go backwards. To-day Hostetter's Bitters is one of the most popular remedies in christendom, and commands a larger sale than any other medicinal preparation, domestic or imported, on this side of the Atlantic. As a cure for dyspepsia, bilious disorders, nervous affections, general debility, and as preventive of epidemic fevers, it takes precedence of every other remedy. This fact should teach the ambitious country dealers who endeavor to foist their local abortions on the public in its stead, how futile their small attempts to cajole the community must necessarily be. Where the game fish have failed there is no chance for the "suckers."

THE CAUSE AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION.—The primary cause of Consumption is derangement of the digestive organs. This derangement produces deficient nutrition and assimilation. By assimilation, I mean that process by which the nutriment of the food is converted into blood, and thence into solids of the body. Persons with digestion thus impaired, having the slightest predisposition to pulmonary disease, or if they take cold, will be very apt to have Consumption of the Lungs in some of its forms; and I hold that it will be impossible to cure any case of Consumption without first restoring a good digestion and healthy assimilation. The very first thing to be done is to cleanse the stomach and bowels from all diseased mucus and slime, which is clogging these organs so that they cannot perform their functions, and then rouse up and restore the liver to a healthy action. For this purpose the surest and best remedy is Schenck's Mandrake Pills. These pills clean the stomach and bowels of the dead and morbid slime that causes disease and decay in the whole system. They will clear out the liver of all diseased bile that has accumulated there, and rouse it up to a new and healthy action, by which natural and healthy bile is secreted.

The stomach, bowels and liver are thus cleansed by the use of Schenck's Mandrake Pills; but there remains in the Stomach an excess of acid, the organ is torpid and the appetite poor. In the bowels the lacteals are weak and require strength and support. It is in a condition like this that Schenck's Seaweed Tonic proves to be the most valuable remedy ever discovered. It is alkaline, and its use will neutralize all excess of acid, making the stomach sweet and fresh; it will give permanent tone to this important organ, and create a good, hearty appetite, and prepare the system for the first process of a good digestion, and ultimately make good, healthy, living blood. After this preparatory treatment, what remains to cure most cases of Consumption is the free and persevering use of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup. The Pulmonic Syrup nourishes the system, purifies the blood, and is readily absorbed into the circulation, and thence distributed to the diseased lungs. There it ripens all morbid matters, whether in the form of abscesses or tubercles, and then assists Nature to expel all the diseased matter, in the form of free expectoration, when once it ripens. It is then, by the great healing and purifying properties of Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, that all ulcers and cavities are healed up sound, and my patient is cured.

The essential thing to be done in curing Consumption is to get up a good appetite and a good digestion, so that the body will grow in flesh and get strong. If a person has diseased lungs,—a cavity or abscess there,—the cavity cannot heal, the matter cannot ripen, so long as the system is below par. What is necessary to cure is a new order of things,—a good nutrition, the body to grow in flesh and get fat; then Nature is helped, the cavities will heal, the matter will ripen and be thrown off in large quantities, and the person regain health and strength. This is the true and only plan to cure Consumption, and if a person is very bad, if the lungs are not entirely destroyed, or even if one lung is entirely gone, if there is enough vitality left in the other to heal up, there is hope.

I have seen many persons cured with only one sound lung, live and enjoy life to a good old age. This is what Schenck's Medicines will do to cure Consumption. They will clean out the stomach, sweeten and strengthen it, get up a good digestion, and give Nature the assistance she needs to clear the system of all the disease that is in the lungs, whatever the form of the disease may be.

It is important that while using Schenck's Medicines care should be exercised not to take cold; keep in-doors in cold and damp weather; avoid night air, and take out-door exercise only in a genial and warm sunshine.

I wish it distinctly understood that when I recommend a patient to be careful in regard to taking cold, while using my medicines, I do so for a special reason. A man who has but partially recovered from the effects of a bad cold is far more liable to a relapse than one who has been entirely cured, and it is precisely the same in regard to Consumption. So long as the lungs are not perfectly healed, just so long is there imminent danger of a full return of the disease. Hence it is that I so strenuously caution pulmonary patients against exposing themselves to an atmosphere that is not genial and pleasant. Confirmed Consumptives' lungs are a mass of sores, which the least change of atmosphere will inflame. The grand secret of my success with my Medicines consists in my ability to subdue inflammation instead of provoking it, as many of the faculty do. An inflamed lung cannot, with safety to the patient, be exposed to the biting blasts of Winter or the chilling winds of Spring or Autumn. It should be carefully shielded from all irritating influences. The utmost caution should be observed in this particular, as without it, a cure under almost any circumstances, is an impossibility.

The person should be kept on a wholesome and nutritious diet, and all the Medicines continued until the body has restored to it the natural quantity of flesh and strength.

I was myself cured by this treatment of the worst kind of Consumption, and have lived to get fat and hearty these many years with one lung mostly gone. I have cured thousands since, and very many have been cured by this treatment whom I have never seen.

About the First of October I expect to take possession of my new building, at the Northeast Corner of Sixth and Arch Streets, where I am pleased to give advice to all who may require it.

Full directions accompany all my Remedies, so that a person in any part of the world can be readily cured by a strict observance of the same.

Testimonials.

I owned a first-class improved Wheeler & Wilson. After giving the Singer a trial I purchased one. I recommend it to all as being better adapted for all classes of work than any machine I have ever used.

MRS. E. J. WYATT.

We are practical with Singer's, Wheeler & Wilson's and other machines. For all classes of work we recommend the former by all means.

J. M. CLYDE.
J. E. TIPTON.
T. H. EASTIN.

I have had Sewing Machine experience for ten or twelve years, for all classes of work.—I cheerfully recommend the New Family Singer as the best. MARTHA ROSE.

I have used my Singer, which I purchased from Mr. Reese, about four years, and the more I use it the better I like it, and it never has been out of order since I bought it, and I never have found any fabric, heavy or light, threads fine or coarse, but what I could sew it to perfection. I can recommend it to all as the best machine for all classes of work that can be had. MRS. J. M. JONES.

I purchased an Elias Howe Sewing Machine from Mr. Reese, the agent, and my wife was very well pleased with it until she saw the New Singer Family Machine at work. Its convenience, speed, &c., was so far ahead of the Howe she sold it and bought a Singer, which she thinks is perfection, and we recommend it cheerfully to all as being the best machine for everything in the market.

R. M. YATES.

I have been using the Singer Family Machine for the last fourteen years without any expense, and it sews as well now as when I first got it. I cheerfully recommend it to all who wish to purchase a machine for all classes of work. SALLIE FIZER.

The Mormons.

Joe Smith, the founder of Mormonism, was killed at Carthage, Illinois, in 1844, and Brigham Young was chosen first President of the Church.—This was while the Mormons were in Illinois. Salt Lake City was founded in 1848. Congress organized the country occupied by the Mormons into the Territory of Utah, of which Brigham Young was appointed Governor by President Fillmore, but was soon removed in conseqence of his forcing the Federal Judges by threats of violence to leave Utah. Brigham, however, refused to give up his position, and various outrages which followed determined President Buchanan to send a military force there. The expedition ended in a compromise, by which the rebellious Mormons who submitted to the Federal authority were pardoned, and the troops entered Salt Lake Valley. Brigham has continued Chief President of the Church. It appears from late dispatches that he has been arrested, as well as Mayor Daniel H. Wells, and will be held to trial for bigamy, or "lewdly and licentiously cohabiting with different women," and also, it is reported, for murder.—The Mormons, as yet, show no indications of resistance. It is possible that they have learned enough by this time of the military power of the United States not to repeat the insurrectionary experiment made under President Buchanan. It is a noteworthy fact that the first proceedings against Brigham are in pursuance of a law enacted by the Mormons themselves. In all the statutes of that territory there are but two brief sections that in any way refer to the subject of marriage, and both of them are evidently intended to encompass the Gentiles only. It is for the violation of section 33 of "an act in relation to crimes and punishments" that Brigham is arrested, to-wit:

"If any man or woman, not being married to each other, lewdly and lasciviously associate and cohabit together, or if any man or woman, married or unmarried, is guilty of open and gross lewdness, every person so offending shall be punished by imprisonment not exceeding ten years and not less than six months, and fined not more than one thousand dollars and not less than one hundred dollars, or both, at the discretion of the court."

Wilson, the Connecticut murderer, just before he was swung off from the gallows, was asked the usual question by the Sheriff, whether he had anything to say why the sentence should not then be executed? He replied that it was a foolish form, for, no matter what he should say, it would be of no avail. If it would avail anything, he should have much to say in regard his case. There was truth and good sense in this. What is the use of asking a question under such circumstances that, no matter how it is answered, will amount to nothing, so far as any practical good to the criminal is concerned. It might be well, perhaps, to ask a malefactor if he desired to say anything before execution was performed; but to put it in a form that would reasonably imply that something might be said to stop a sentence is an official lie that ought no longer to be indulged in. The same remark applies to the interrogatory of Judges after a verdict is rendered, and when a sentence of death is to be delivered by the Court.

There is a speck of war on the Maine coast. Some pesteriferous Yankee skippers—of the class who are always involving us in trouble with Great Britain—have gone over to Nova Scotia, stolen a vessel, and brought her into an American port, for what purpose is not stated. A British gunboat has followed in pursuit, and now a fleet of revenue cutters is being prepared to blow the Britisher out of the brine should he attempt to recapture the stolen vessel in sacred American waters. Between the trouble about fisheries, and the performance of piratical feats, those shad-eaters down there will yet succeed in vitiating the work of the High Commission.

☞The following is the act of Congress in relation to writing upon newspapers or other periodicals sent by, mail and may be of interests to many who have fallen into the habit:

If any persou shall enclose or conceal a letter, or other things, or any memorandum, in writing, in a newspaper, pamphlet or magazine, or make any writing thereon, which he shall have delivered in any post office, or to any person for that purpose, in order that the same may be sent by post free of letter postage, he shall forfeit the sum of $50 for every offence—and the letter, newspaper, package, memoranda, or other things, shall not be delivered to the person to whom it is directed, until the amount of single letter postage is paid for each article of which the package is composed."

☞ Vice-President Colfax says, in a communication to the New York Independent, that "the undoubted public opinion of the country is that the time for general amnesty has arrived." Yes, but the Administration, says the Cincinnati Enquirer, despite that fact, has set itself against it. Senator Morton, its mouthpiece, announces that he will never vote for it.

At a meeting of the merchants and manufacturers of Louisville, recently, steps were taken to organize a Louisville Industrial Exposition. Appropriate committees were appointed, and it was determined to fix the capital stock at $300.000. The next meeting will be held October 30. The movement is in the hands of men who are likely to make it a success.

The telegraph reports a most tragic occurrence at Zanesville, Ohio. A young lawyer named Durban, sitting broken-hearted at the bedside of his dying wife, Tuesday evening, the 17th inst., blew out his brains with a pistol.

☞A man by the name of Riggs, from Oxford, Ohio, committed suicide near Falmouth, on the 7th by shooting himself through the head with a pistol.

An exchange tells us that, "while engaged in playing 'tie up sheep,' some Delaware county (N. Y.) chil-ren succeeded in hanging one of eir comrades." Has it never oc-rred to the friends of justice at shinhton that this play of "tie up p" might be extensively intro-d among the office-holders there effects greatly beneficial to the y?—Courier-Journal.

MEDICAL.

WARNER'S

PILE REMEDY!

Warner's Pile Remedy has never failed (not even in one case) to cure the very worst cases or Blind, Itching or Bleeding Piles.—Those who are afflicted should immediately call on their druggist and get WARNER'S PILE REMEDY. It is expressly for the Piles, and is not recommended to cure any other disease.—It has cured many cases of over thirty years standing. Price One Dollar. For sale by druggists everywhere.

DYSPEPSIA.

Warner's Dyspepsia Tonic is prepared expressly for Dyspeptics and those suffering with habitual Costiveness. It is a slightly stimulating tonic and a splendid appetizer; it strengthens the stomach and restores the digestive organs to their healthy state. Weak, nervous and dyspeptic persons should use WARNER'S DYSPEPSIA TONIC. For sale by druggists. Price One Dollar.

Cough No More.

Warner's Cough Balsam is healing, softening and expectorating. The extraordinary power it possesses in immediately relieving, and eventually curing, the most obstinate cases of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Catarrh, Hoarseness, Asthma and Consumption is almost incredible.—So prompt is the relief and certain its effects in all the above cases, or any affection of the throat and lungs, that thousands of physicians are daily prescribing it, and one and all say that it is most healing and expectorating medicine known. One dose always affords relief and in most cases one bottle effects a cure. Sold by druggists, in large bottles.—Price One Dollar. It is your own fault if you still cough and suffer. The Balsam will cure.

Wine of Life.

The great Blood Purifier and Delicious Drink, Warner's Vinum Vitæ, or Wine of Life, is free from any poisonous drugs or impurities, being prepared for those who require a stimulant. It is a splendid appetizer and tonic, and the finest thing in the world for purifying the blood. It is the most pleasant and delicious article ever offered to the public, far superior to brandy, whiskey, wine, bitters, or any other article. It is more healthy, and cheaper. Both male and female, young or old, can take the Wine of Life. It is different from any thing ever before in use. It is sold by druggists, also at all respectable saloons. Pr One Dollar, in quart bottles.

Emmenagogue.

Warner's Emmenagogue is the only article known to cure the Whites, (it will cure in every case) where is the family in which this important medicine is not wanted? Mothers, this is the greatest blessing ever offered you, and you should immediately procure it. It is also a sure cure for Female Irregularities, and may be depended upon in every case where the monthly flow has been obstructed through cold or disease. Sold by druggists. Pri One Dollar. Or sent by mail on receipt One Dollar and a Quarer. Address

GIFT CONCERT.

$1,000,000.

BY authority of a special act of the Legislature of Kentucky, of March 31, 1871, the Trustees of the Public Library of Kentucky will give

A GRAND GIFT CONCERT

AT LOUISVILLE, KY.,

On Tuesday, October 31, 1871,

Under the direction of the best Musical Talent.

100,000 TICKETS OF ADMISSION.

Tickets $10 each in Currency; Half Tickets $5; Quarter Tickets $2 50.

Each ticket will consist of four quarters, value, $2 50 each. The holder is entitled to admission to the Concert, and te the amount of gift awarded to it or its fraction. Tickets number from 1 to $100,000.

The Citizens Bank of Kentucky is Treasurer.

All moneys arising from the sale of tickets will be deposited with the Citizens Bank, subject only to the order of the President and Treasurer of the Library, countersigned by the Business Manager.

During the Concert the sum of

$550,000 IN GREENBACKS

Will be distributed by lot to the holders of Tickets in the following gifts, viz:

One Grand Gift of	$100,000

721 Gifts in all	$550,000

After paying the expenses of the enterprise and making the distribution of the gifts, the balance of the proceeds arising from the sale of tickets will be appropriated to the establishment of a

FREE LIBRARY

In Louisville, to be called the Public Library of Kentucky.

The concert and distribution will take place under the immediate supervision of the Trustees named in act of incorporation.

The trustees will be assisted by the following well-known and eminent citizens of Kentucky, who have consented to be present at the concert, and to superintend the drawing and distribution of gifts:

The holders of tickets to which gifts are awarded will be paid on presentation of them or their fraction, at the office in Louisville, the second day after drawing and every business day for six months thereafter, and may be sent direct or through any Bank or Express Co., for collection. All orders accompanied by Drafts, Post Office Money Orders, or Greenbacks, will be promptly attended to and tickets returned by mail, registered or Expiessed, as desised.

Tickets are like Greenbacks—good only to the holder.

Buyers will note that there are only One Hundred Thousand Tickets instead of Two Hundred Thousand, as in the San Francisco Gift Concert, and that there is $50,000 more money distributed. I sold that and made the awards in four months and poid $148,000 to ticket holders from Novembor 2nd to 15th, 1870, and turned over $12,000 to the Secretasy due tickets not presented.

It will be partiaularly noticed that it is a matter of impossibility for any one to know what numbers draw gifts, as it is not known what the gift of any number drawn from the first wheel will be, until the sealed box, with amount of gift plainly printed, is taken from the other wheel and opened in full view of the audienee, therefore the larger gifts may not come out until towards the last, or in the middle of the drawing. The $100,009 gift in the San Francisco Gift Concert, under the management of C. R. Peters, was the 200th number drawn, and was awarded and paid to a gentleman in New Orleans.

☞ The Numbers and Gifts are drawn by Blind Children from 8 to 14 years of age.

The Drawing will be extensively published, and parties ordering Tickets will have printed lists sent them. Parties forming Clubs and desiring information will please addrees this office.

11 Tickets for $100; 28 Tickets, $255; 56 Tickets, $500; 113 Tickets, $1000.

The undersigned, late principal business manager of the very successful Mercantile Library Gift Concert at San Francisco, California, has been appointed agent and manager of the Gift Concert in aid of the Public Library of Kentucky.

The drawing will take place in public, and everything will be done to satisfy buyers of tickets that their interests will be as well protected as if thry personally superintended the entire affair.

MANNER OF DRAWING:

There will be two glass wheels. One wheel will contain 100,000 numbers, plainly printed on leather tags. The other wheel will contain 721 boxes, each containing a gift. One tag or number will be drawn from the 100,000 wheel, and the first box drawn from the second or 721 box wheel will contain a gift, neatly printed and sealed up, and the gift so drawn from the second wheel will be the gift of the tag first drawn, whether $100, $1,000, or $100,000, as announced.

14,364 Tickets Disposed of in July.

To insure ticket holders, the public are assured that if only 25,000 tickets are sold only 25,000 numbers go in the large wheel, the 721 gifts awarded, but diminished pro rata. In case 50,000 tickets only are sold, only numbers 1 to 50,000 go in the large wheel, and the 721 gifts diminished one-half; and in case only 85,050 tickets are sold the entire 721 gifts will be paid in full—it being intended no unsold tickets shall participate.

The Manager has already paid into the Citizens' Bank $32,500 towards defraying the expenses and does not depend on sales of tickets to pay his expenses of Printing, Advertising, &c. The public are invited to the utmost scrutiny as to the reliability of the entire affair.

Persons desirous of acting as agents for the sale of tickets in any city of the United States or Canada, address

MEDICAL.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, has anything won so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary complaints. Through a long series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most effectual remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, it should be kept on hand in every family, and indeed as all are sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this antidote for them.

Although settled Consumption is thought incurable, still great numbers of cases where the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the disorders of the Lungs and Throat, that the most obstinate of them yield to it. When nothing else could reach them, under the Cherry Pectoral they subside and disappear.

Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it.

Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it.

Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses.

So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it in nowise injures any patient. The number and importance of its cures in the ague districts are literally beyond account, and we believe without a parallel in the history of Ague medicine. Our pride is gratified by the acknowledgments we receive of the radical cures effected in obstinate cases, and where other remedies had wholly failed.

Unacclimated persons, either resident in, or travelling through miasmatic localities, will be protected by taking the AGUE CURE daily.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity of the Liver, it is an excellent remedy, stimulating the Liver into healthy activity.

For Bilious Disorders and Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy, producing many truly remarkable cures, where other medicines had failed.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass., and sold all round the world.

PRICE, $1.00 PER BOTTLE.

Dr WALKER'S CALIFORNIA

VINEGAR BITTERS,

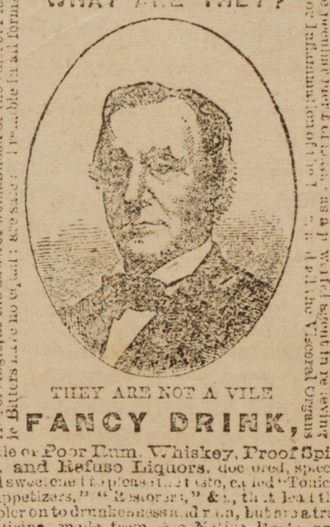
Hundreds of Thousands

Bear testimony to their wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

For Female Complaints, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these [illegible] Bitters have no equal

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing [illegible] Congestion or Inflammation of the [illegible] and all the Visceral Organs



THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced, and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics" "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters, according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, providing the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

They invigorate the stomach, and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Copious Discharges of Urine, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, which are the offsprings of Dyspepsia, are [illegible] Bitters.

Cleanse the [illegible] its impurities [illegible] ples, Eruptions [illegible] foul, and your [illegible] the blood pure [illegible] health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, [illegible] other WORMS, lurking in the system of so [illegible] thousands, are effectually destroyed and r[illegible]ed.

For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.
